

The 2nd International Scientific Conference on Natural Airborne Dust

The Second International Conference on Natural Airborne Dust will be held in University of Babylon, Iraq, on 21-22 May 2014

The main scientific objectives of the conference are to obtain an update of current knowledge and research programs on dust and its impacts, to disseminate recent results, to facilitate information exchange, especially with young scientists

One of the major objectives is to bring together scientists working on dust worldwide, exchange information on hot research topics, present and discuss recent understanding of the links and feed backs between desert dust and radiation, clouds, water budget, human health, and biological systems, promote international collaborative efforts between research groups, Institutions, and Agencies

The meeting follows a successful tradition of astrophysical dust meetings, starting in the Islamic Republic of Iran in 2012, with the latest edition
"International Forum on Natural Airborne Dust " organized by" Razi University,
"Iran
